

News from the Prayer Path

Leanna Lindsey Hollis M.D. Director of Intercessory Prayer and Outreach

God has done more over the last few weeks than I can relate in a brief newsletter, but here are a few highlights and photos. Your generosity made it all possible, and I'm so very grateful for your prayers, your hands-on assistance, and your financial support. Thank you!

The first Whisper Gathering prayer retreat was held 9/22-23/2017. The seventy women who attended surrendered to a deeper walk with Christ and the cleansing only He can give.

Three Whisper Gatherings were held in the Middle East during October. (one each for pre-teens, a women's Bible study group, and workers at the Baptist Conference Center) "We only pray for ourselves," one woman confessed. "You mean we should be praying for our nation? Our city? Our enemies? We need to start." Several women admitted, "I reach for my mobile phone first thing in the morning and never make it to my Bible, but that will change now."

The souk, or outdoor market, is a central shopping area as well as a place to meet new people.

Prayer Points:

- 1) Completion of writing project for Jordanian Baptists.
- 2) Rest after long caregiving season.
- 3) Speaking at two upcoming events.

Teaching science to native Arabic-speaking students for four days was quite a challenge, but lots of fun. They're a lively group!

I was blessed to join a team from the U.S. in a church-sponsored medical clinic for refugees for two days. Almost all the patients were Muslims. In addition to medical care, we gave lots of smiles, hugs, and love. Every patient heard the gospel before they left. (Above, right - my exam room, far right - patients waiting at the pharmacy)

I'd be remiss if I didn't include a photo of my beloved Sam Wiley, who moved to his eternal home on November 7th, 2017. After 28 years of his help, I have some adjustments to make. I miss him already. Ryan and I cherish your prayers as we grieve.
